

Your office environment, impacts the global environment.

Every new piece of office furniture made consumes natural resources and costs energy to produce. But remanufactured office furniture recycles and conserves. It also saves you money.

Workspace Authority sells remanufactured office furniture as well as complete office solutions.

Because we are specialists in workspace management, we can show you how to reduce your office's environmental footprint while maintaining aesthetics and function. And we'll oversee the liquidation of your current office furnishings.

Call us before you move your office or when you need additional or replacement furniture. We will advise you on the best ways to save time, money and the environment.
